Student Success Guide
2020–2021
Start Here, Charge into the Future!

Congratulations on becoming an SKC Bison. SKC welcomes you into our family. We are ready to assist you to meet your educational goals, whether you are here to explore a degree path, enhance your cultural knowledge with a single class, take some classes before transferring to another college, earn a certificate to enhance your work skills, or complete a 2 year or 4 year degree program. We have a legacy of guiding students just like you towards more confident and fulfilling lives.

While you may have your own goals for college, research continues to demonstrate that being a college graduate has many benefits.

- Data continues to show that the college graduates make up to twice the lifetime earnings of high school graduates and annual earnings are about 130% higher.
- College graduates are more likely to live healthier, more satisfying lives (Strada Foundation, 2017).
- College graduates are also more likely to be involved in their community and have higher long-term job satisfaction.

This Student Success Guide is a resource for student success. The Guide is filled with valuable information about college services, resources, locations, numbers, and links that will answer many of your questions during your time at SKC. This was designed to be the first place you should go when you need answers to inquiries like: Where do I find a certain department? How do I contact someone? Are there any college services if I need help for a particular problem?

Take the time to familiarize yourself with the SKC Code of Conduct and the SKC Catalog. Also review the SKC website, update digital accounts regularly, link to SKC’s Google Calendar, and verify they are signed up for our RAVE system. Successful students generally use calendars to organize their day to do the important things needed for academic success such as study and class times, assignments, exams, and important notes you have taken during class. Successful students also check in with their advisor regularly and ask for assistance as soon as it is needed. We know that being a college student can be challenging and difficult, but the payoff is sweet. We are here to help and we believe in you and your success. Let us work together to make your time here at SKC rewarding, successful and life changing.

Have a wonderful year!

At SKC, faculty members provide student advising. Each student is assigned an advisor based on the student’s declared major. Your advisor is an important part of your educational pathway. You can consider your advisor the “go to” person when you need support and guidance.

Your advisor will have regular office hours that provide times for meetings. You may also contact your advisor via email or use their office phone number. Many advisors will ask you to set up an appointment for quarterly academic advising. However, if you want to talk to your advisor between regular appointments, you can drop in during office hours or may email or call to request an appointment.

Your advisor will provide the following assistance:

As you first start at SKC, your advisor may ask you questions about your career goals as well as factors that may impact your success, such as employment, housing, and child or eldercare. Based on your responses, your advisor may recommend SKC resources such as the Career Center, the SKC Housing Office, the Student Support Services (TRIO) Program, or others. During the first meeting, your advisor will help you register for courses in your major. Your advisor will also show you the curriculum plan for your major and discuss any other concerns you may have.

Prior to each new academic quarter, you will meet with your advisor to review your success in current coursework and discuss courses needed for the next quarter so you stay on track with your curriculum plan. Your advisor will help guide you toward graduation. However, ultimately it is your responsibility to track your own academic progress toward graduation.

You will also visit with your advisor for the following reasons:

· If you need to add or withdraw from a course.

· To complete graduation paperwork.

· To discuss supports available if you are having difficulty with a particular course.

In addition to these roles, your advisor may also check in with you about your developing career plans. Your advisor may have information about internships or work study positions that would help you build your resume’. Advisors also may write letters of recommendation for scholarships or employment. Advisors are also aware of campus and community supports and will refer you to these supports if you are experiencing difficulties with issues such as food security or mental health.

If you change majors, will you be assigned an advisor in your new program.

Salish Kootenai College General Education Outcomes and Assessment

What are “general education courses?” They are a set of courses that students take outside of their academic major. All degree and certificate of completion programs have requirements for general education courses built into the curricula.

SKC’s general education courses are designed to help students develop a broad base of knowledge and skills and become more effective life-long learners. Because SKC is a tribal college, general education courses also emphasize the Native American cultures, particularly those of the Salish, Pend d’Oreille, and Kootenai tribes and their histories, cultures, and languages.

SKC has four college-wide learning outcomes known as the “4 Cs”: Critical Thinking, Communication, Cultural Understandings, and Citizenship. You will hear alot about these outcomes, as they appear in many classes and are highlighted in general education courses.

SKC defines the 4 Cs as follows:

Critical Thinking: A self-directed process for refining thought. Critical thinkers validate and reflect on their thinking, consider the validity of information sources, context, and multiple perspectives, and apply both logic and traditional understandings to make decisions.

Cultural Understandings at SKC emphasizes sustaining and perpetuating the living cultural traditions of the Selis, Qlispe, and Ksanka peoples.

Citizenship includes informed and committed participation in the life of one’s community at the local, national, and global levels. Citizens recognize and address community issues, apply ethical and legal knowledge and reasoning, and respect the rights of others.

Communication is clear, respectful sharing of information guided by critical thinking and mindful consideration. Skilled communicators connect with people through spoken, written, and media methods that effectively convey content knowledge and individual values.

SKC assesses student learning in many ways. Assessment provides the College with a means to determine whether students are learning the expected knowledge and skills to become competent in their chosen field of study or career. Documentation of assessment processes and results is an important part of SKC’s continuous efforts to improve student learning.
